New Carpet in Worship Center

Thirty-three years and eleven months ago, we moved into our church's worship center. It is a tribute to our church members and, more specifically, the house & grounds committee, that the original carpet in the church's worship center lasted as long as it did. Of course, the primary reason for installing the new carpet was to protect from the increased likelihood of the buckling carpet causing someone to trip and injure themselves. Another side benefit, however, to having the beautiful new carpet in the worship center is that it gives another opportunity for guests to have a good first impression of PVBC.

The longer we have attended a church, the less we are able to see it through the eyes of a newcomer. But to newcomers who don't know anyone, other things (including facilities) shape their initial attitude and decision to come back. If they do come back, relationships grow in importance and facilities decline in importance. When you know special guests will be arriving, you pick up the clothes, wash the windows, clean the dishes, and put on your house's best face. This also applies to a church. It is good to know, therefore, that not only does this new carpet eliminate the health hazard from our old carpet but also conveys a positive attitude to guests visiting our church. It contributes to the beauty of the church inside as the mulch you helped put down contributed to the beauty outside. To be sure, nice facilities don't make churches grow. However, poor facilities often keep them from growing.

Thank you to everyone for your part in helping us to be the church God wants us to be.

In His service,
Pastor Glenn
